

Wakefield's Junior Varsity Closes Today

Wakefield's junior varsity will compete in their final game of the 1954 season this afternoon, when they meet George Mason's JV's at Wakefield. This will be the second engagement between the two teams, the junior Warriors winning the initial game 14-0.

Vic Blue, coach of the Wakefield junior varsity eleven, is confident his team can come through and bring him a winning season. To date the squad boasts a .500 percentage with two wins against two defeats, and need this last one to break on top in the record column. "We can win this one," put in coach Blue, "if the boys just continue to play as they have all season, especially in their last game." They dropped a 12-7 decision to Falls Church JV last Thursday, but even in defeat it was a good showing, as the visitors were an unbeaten, unscored upon team, and in the late stages of the game, the Warriors moved to their opponent's 20 when the final whistle halted their drive goalward.

George Mason will enter as underdog, having already been defeated by this same team, but are not expected as pushovers. Their first game was with Wakefield, and they too have gained by experience. Good defensively, the visitors lack only a steady offense.
